To Lisbon Fretilin,

EDA Satsuki received a telephone call from the Japanese Foreign Ministry this morning to inform him that the two East Timorese students had left the Japanese Embassy at 1:20 AM Jakarta time. They left on the basis of a promise from the Indonesian government to the Japanese Embassy that they would not be arrested. The Embassy asked the Indonesian Government if the agreement could be made public, and were told it could, and that in fact, by making it public in the media would insure that it would be kept.

When we have the details from the Foreign Ministry, I will be in touch again.
